Faculty of Psychology: Key Information

Short description	Description	Link
GSP website	The Graduate School of Psychology (GSP) website contains the most important information regarding your doctoral studies.	https://psychologie.unibas.ch/en/gsp/
Room booking tool	This tool allows you to check the occupancy of all rooms at the university. You can also book rooms there (if necessary). Alternatively, you can use the email provided.	Mail: info-raumreservation@unibas.ch Website: https://rauminfo.unibas.ch/
Unibas Services	This website contains all your personal information related to your employment and studies (e.g. salary statements). It is also used for any interaction you have with your employer (e.g. vacation requests, accident reports for health insurance, etc.).	https://Services.unibas.ch
Course Directory	Allows you to search for current courses at the University of Basel. "The GSP offers workshops and courses tailored to the needs of doctoral students in psychology.	https://vorlesungsverzeichnis.unibas.ch/en/home
Employment Contract	During the first semester, a doctoral agreement is signed between the doctoral candidate and the major professor. The Doctoral Agreement includes a preliminary study plan and schedule for the doctoral program, any requirements and general conditions, and the proposed selection of options to achieve the program objectives (number of credit points) - a personalized curriculum. In addition, regular meetings are recommended to explicitly discuss whether the doctoral program is progressing according to the doctoral agreement. If significant changes occur in this process, the Doctoral Agreement should be updated.	https:/psychologie.unibas.ch/en/studies/doctoral-studies/
Dissertation and Contribution	The dissertation is an independent research project and must demonstrate the doctoral candidate's ability to work independently and to meet the scholarly requirements of the topic. A dissertation may be submitted as either a cumulative dissertation or a monograph. A cumulative dissertation consists of at least one published or accepted for publication peer-reviewed article (of which the doctoral researcher is the first author) and at least two additional articles (of which the doctoral researcher is the first or co-author) that have been submitted to, accepted for publication in, or published in a peer-reviewed journal, plus a 10- to 20-page abstract that integrates the research results into a coherent research strategy and research question, and that clearly demonstrates the doctoral researcher's personal contribution. The format of the dissertation, with the exception of the cover sheet and the declaration of scientific integrity , is not specified and will be worked out with the primary supervisor.	https:/psychologie.unibas.ch/en/studies/doctoral-studies/
Ph.D. Regulation	All mandatory information for your Ph.D. can be found at the first link. Note that specific rules/regulations may apply to those in doctoral programs (see second link).	https://www.unibas.ch/dam/jcr:cfd8d20c-c9b9-46ac-a974-d286d0e0a9d1/446_810_02.pdf https://psychologie.unibas.ch/en/studies/doctoral-studies/doctoral-programs/
Curriculum	Doctoral students are responsible for the successful completion of at least 12 ECTS within the program. The required ECTS can be obtained from the following three areas (1-3); at least two-thirds must be obtained in areas 1 and 2: 1. External scientific courses related to the dissertation topic 2. Internal scientific courses related to the dissertation topic 3. Teaching and other educational activities Areas 1 and 2 include doctoral level courses related to the dissertation topic at the Faculty of Psychology of the University of Basel or at other universities. Doctoral students are required to attend research courses at the Faculty of Psychology on a regular basis, even if they are not directly related to the dissertation topic. All doctoral students at the Faculty of Psychology are required to be enrolled at the University of Basel for the entire duration of their doctoral studies. Doctoral students must register as early as possible.	More info: https://psychologie.unibas.ch/en/studies/doctoral-studies/

Data Governance & Compliance	In the course of your research, you will use various types of data (which may be owned by third parties). This link will provide you with basic information on how to obtain and store data in a compliant manner that follows university best practices and does not expose you to personal liability. Here you will find tools and advice on how to manage your data. Contact the Data Stewards (Philippe Chresta) for more information and assistance.	https://psychologie.unibas.ch/de/forschung/forschungsdatenmanagement/
GRACE Consulting Services	For example, if you need individualized support for your well-being (e.g., psychological help) or want to contact the Ombudsperson's Office for a confidential matter. There are many other services available.	https://www.unibas.ch/en/University/Administration-Services/Vice-President-s-Office-for-Education/Academic-Programs/Graduate-Center/Advisory-Services.html
Additional Information	"Welcome Days" are organized once a year to welcome new PhD students and postdocs, where all relevant information is presented to the newcomers. There is also an opportunity to attend the workshop "Getting started: orientation and core skills for a successful PhD", which helps new students get off to a good start.

External information

Short description	Description	Link
A wiki for calls for papers	This page keeps track of various conferences and deadlines for abstract / paper submissions as well as the date and the location.	http://www.wikicfp.com/cfp/